

INDOOR TRACK: BRIDGET BRONSDON

UConn's indoor track and field team captured their fifth consecutive Big East Championship title. The men earned 194 points, beating out second place, DePaul with 113, by a landslide. The women enjoyed the same success, claiming 169 points while second place DePaul followed behind with 133. Joshua Mooney earned the Big East Most Outstanding Field Performer due to his first-place heptathlon finish, claiming 5,717 points. Anna Connors also took home the gold with a 400m time of 54.33. The Huskies swept the 60m hurdles with Mohamed Wahdan (6.92), Wyatt Gravier (8.13) and Jordon Quinn (8.15) going first, second and third. The men's and women's coaching staff was also celebrated, winning Big East Coaching Staff of the Year.

OUTDOOR TRACK: BRIDGET BRONSDON

The Big East Outdoor Championships, on May 14-16, will most likely yield success for the Huskies as they earned their fifth consecutive indoor title in late February. The success continued into the outdoor season with various notable finishes of the track and field. Leading the freshman talent is Medwin Odamtten, who recently earned a personal best at the UConn Northeast Challenge with a 200m time of 21.37. On the field, sophomore Enaji Muhammad earned a first-place finish in the Northeast Challenge pole vault, recording 2.11m. The men's 4x400m relay also took home a first-place time of 3:09.79 thanks to Peyton Butler, Gabriel Cuffey, Teyedza Jaravaza and Del Lindsey. With the success just beginning, it's sure to continue.

BASEBALL: WILL DELETTO

In the midst of the 2025-26 season, the UConn men's baseball team's season has been reflected by both resilience and offensive firepower through a tough schedule. The Huskies have hovered around .500 with a record of 21-20. In the Big East, they hold a 7-5 record and sit 4th in the standings. Key contributors such as Polemeni and Marshall have powered the lineup with timely hitting and running production, while the pitching staff continues to develop and deliver in big moments. With steady growth over the remainder of the season, the Huskies look to reinforce their status as a competitive force and build a strong foundation for continued success.

SOFTBALL: BRAYDEN GORSKI

After a rough start in non-conference play, the UConn softball team currently owns a record of 23-24 with seven games left before the Big East Tournament. The team sits in third place in the Big East with a conference record of 13-5, and they have a home record of 12-2 at Burrill Family Field. Cat Petteys followed up a 15-home run freshman campaign with 17 home runs and counting in 2026. Caprice Bohmer and Jessica Walter have been the backbone of the rotation. Bohmer has 112 strikeouts on the year while Walter has a 3.69 ERA in her first season at UConn. The squad has a chance to repeat as the Big East Champions and make their second consecutive NCAA tournament.

SWIM AND DIVE: AVERY BECKER

The UConn women's swim and dive program only amassed one loss over the entire season, finishing their 2025-26 campaign on a six-meet winning streak. The Huskies closed out their season with a second-place finish in the Big East Tournament. Throughout this three-day meet, records were broken. Sydney Perkins, Rhian Russell, Maggie Rhodes and Jessica Sheng broke a school record in the 200 Medley Relay. As the Huskies shift their focus to the 2026-27 season, they will look to continue their momentum!

TENNIS: ALEX KLANCKO

The UConn women's tennis team had an up and down season. In regular season play, the Huskies finished with a record of 12-8 with a conference record of 4-3. In the Big East Championship, UConn avenged their loss on April 2, to four-seeded Georgetown 4-2 but fell to one-seeded Xavier 3-4. The UConn tennis team was able to keep their undefeated record alive versus Seton Hall after they beat them 4-3 on April 8. The Huskies will look forward to bouncing back next season after a rocky 2025-26 season.

GOLF: RYAL LOMBARDI

The UConn men's golf team is preparing for the Big East Championship coming up as they look to end an impressive campaign on a high note. They claimed victories in the UConn invitational in September and more recently the Golfweek/Stifel Spring Challenge. Senior Connor Goode has led the squad, earning five top ten finishes this season. Junior Bradley Sawka has had an equally stellar season, leading the team with 20 rounds at par or better. The group seems to be in top form after sophomore Kai-Jun Huang just put up his best performance of his career this past weekend. The Huskies will look to carry that momentum into postseason play, searching for their first team conference title since 2021.

WOMENS HOCKEY: KADEN KNAPP

UConn women's hockey had a season to remember. For the first time in program history, the Huskies won an NCAA Tournament game, defeating Princeton 4-1 before falling to Penn State in the next round. They finished 28-9-2 overall and 17-6-1 in conference play. For the second time in three years, UConn captured the Hockey East Tournament title. Connecticut beat Northeastern in the championship after losing all three regular-season matchups to the Huskies. Tia Chan was spectacular in her final season in front of the goal. The Ontario native became the second Husky to be selected as a First Team All-American. She won Hockey East Goaltender of the Year, leading the conference in wins (27), shutouts (5) and save percentage (.951). Kyla Josifovic led the charge offensively. In 39 games, the senior led the team in points and goals with 40 and 16.

MEN'S HOCKEY: NICOLE CARUSO

The UConn men's hockey team had a stellar season, making it to the NCAA tournament for the second time in program history. Despite falling to Michigan State in the tournament, this still marked an impressive season for the team. The team ranked No. 13 nationally and ended the season with a 20-13-5 record. The Huskies also secured their second straight CT Ice Championship title defeating Quinnipiac University. Joey Muldowney led the team in goals (17) and Ryan Tattle led in points (32). Defenseman Viking Gustafsson Nyberg made his NHL debut with the Minnesota Wild just days after signing an entry level contract with the organization. The Huskies will look to continue to prove themselves as a top team in Hockey East next season.
