PHOTOS

‘Owl Jam’ returns for student appreciation week

By Carly Russell
Photo Editor

On April 16, the Programs Council and the Office of Student Involvement and Leadership Development hosted the annual ‘Owl Jam,’ in honor of student appreciation week. WSIN, the university’s student-run radio station presented live music performed by local musicians. Attendees who checked in with their student ID received two vouchers to be used at food trucks. The event also featured carnival rides, inflatables and games where students could win prizes.

Photos: Carly Russell

See full story on page 1

Deb’s Cafe, a food truck based in Bristol, Connecticut.

PHOTOS | CARLY RUSSELL

Sports management major Grace Flanagan, a freshman and English major Lilith Matias, a sophomore.

Healthcare studies majors Bryan Jean and Jayla Bonilla, seniors.

Elementary education major Daisy Perez and exploratory major Robert Miraba, freshmen.

Students driving inflatable bumper cars.

Students competing in an inflatable jousting game.

Communication disorders majors Lindsey Veneziano and Morgan Ramsay and nursing major Emily Bailey, seniors, enjoying their free snow cones.

Food trucks, carnival games and rides set up in Lot 4 outside Wilkinson Hall.