PHOTOS

Students gather for chocolate and pumpkins

Lily Rand
Photo Editor

On Oct. 28, Programs Council hosted "Trick or Treat Yourself to EVERYTHING... Chocolate" in Adanti Student Center Room 217, bringing students together for an afternoon of Halloween-themed fun and community engagement. Attendees enjoyed an assortment of chocolate treats and refreshments while taking a break from their academic responsibilities and spending time with friends. The event also featured pumpkin painting, which gave students an opportunity to express their creativity and embrace the holiday spirit in a relaxed setting. Throughout the afternoon, participants connected with fellow students, enjoyed a welcoming atmosphere and celebrated the season ahead of Halloween.

Photos: Mateusz Gazdzicki

Programs Council members handing out treats at the event.

Students collecting chocolates and materials to paint pumpkins.

Health science major Christie Cassamafor, a junior, giving out treats at the event.

A students looking at inspriation for what to paint on their pumpkin.

Students pose for a photo next to the pumpkins they were painting.

'Trunk or Treat' brings community to campus

Organizers of the event handing out candy to volunteers.

Twin Electric LLC with a "Jaws" display to hand out candy.

Lily Rand
Photo Editor

On Saturday, Oct. 31, the Office of Student Involvement hosted "Trunk or Treat" in the Brownell Parking Lot, welcoming students, families and community members for a day of seasonal fun and engagement. The event featured decorated vehicle trunks filled with candy, providing attendees with a safe and family-friendly environment to celebrate the season. Participants explored displays, collected treats and interacted with volunteers and organizations that helped bring the event to life. The gathering encouraged connections between the university and the greater New Haven community while creating an inviting atmosphere for guests of all ages. With strong attendance throughout the day, "Trunk or Treat" offered opportunities for families to enjoy festive activities and spend time together on campus.

For more go to page 1

Photos: William Gagné

Shubert Theatre representatives at their Christmas themed table.

Student volunteers pose for a photo in their costumes.

New Haven Reads table with free books to hand out to children.

Families and community members at 'Trunk or Treat.'

New Haven Youth and Recreation staff dressed in their costumes to hand out candy.

Children in their costumes collecting candy at different trunks and tables.