Tuesday, July 8th "Classics": Were an American vocal group formed in 1958 in Brooklyn. The Classics first sang together in high school; two of them had previously sung in a group called The Del-Rays. In 1959, under the auspices of manager Jim Gribble, they recorded their first single, "Cinderella"; the record Bubbled Under the US Hot 100 in early 1960. The follow-up, "Angel Angela", also narrowly missed the national charts, and the 1961 single "Life Is But a Dream" hit the lower regions of the R&B Singles chart when Mercury Records picked it up for national distribution, but it wasn't until they released the single "Blue Moon" with Herb Lance on lead vocals that they charted a hit. The song peaked at #50. The group signed with Musicnote Records in 1963 and released "Till Then", which became their biggest hit, peaking at #20 on the pop charts and #7 AC. The group was best remembered for its ballads, and frequently sang versions of pop standards from the 1920s and 1930s. They frequently changed labels over the course of their career, and parted ways about 1966. Member Emil Stucchio revived the name to tour in the 1970s and again in the 1990s and 2000s. In the 1990s, the group was Stuccio, former Mystic Al Contrera, Scott LaChance, and Michael Paquette. Later it was Stuccio, Contrera, LaChance, and Teresa McClean. LaChance later left the group.

GFWC Women's Club A Tribute To The Fourth Of July

North Haven: The General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) had its origins in 1890, when Sorosis, a women's literary club founded by journalist Jane Cunningham Croly, issued invitations to other women's literary clubs to form an umbrella organization with the goal of uniting "women's clubs to enhance community service by volunteers throughout the world." Over the years GFWC has been committed to that goal and has grown to become an international service organization with member clubs in all 50 states and in many foreign countries.

The GFWC has been deeply committed to and supportive of the United States, its government, and its Constitution by action including legislative action, governmental support and community service. One of the group's important early victories was a massive letter-writing campaign that was instrumental in passing the Pure Food and Drug Act. The organization's goals included the establishment of an eight-hour workday, an end to child labor, reform of civil rights, conservation, and was active in the Women's Suffrage movement. The organization instituted many free libraries throughout the state.

During WW II the GFWC raised millions of dollars for the US for bombers and fighter plains. Infact a B-17 Superfortris was named GFWC. As GFWC continues its successful trajectory of grassroots advocacy, we proudly highlight over 14,000 legislative actions aimed at prompting Congress to address crucial issues such as domestic violence, women's rights, veterans' rights, and vaccination initiatives, among others.

On the local level each month of this past club year the GFWC Women's Club of North Haven has underscored its commitment to Community Service by donating food to North Haven's food banks, combating domestic violence by donating toiletries, socks and other materials to BHcare for women in Safe Houses, by donating a van-load of diapers, wipes, baby clothing, and other items to Mary and Joseph's Place, a non-profit, faith-based organization supporting needy families, supporting Veterans by donating paperbacks, calendars, Cheery Vases with flowers also cherry Holiday greeting cards for each hospitalized Veterans at the Veteran's Hospital, and providing school supplies to one of North Haven's elementary schools The list of service projects goes on for each month.

On this Fourth of July, we are encountering great difficulties in the Nation and in the world which are impacting on our very rights and freedoms which had been guaranteed by our Constitution. Perhaps on this most sacred day commemorating the birth of this nation we need to dedicate ourselves to the preservation of our democracy.

In 1849 Henry Wadsworth Longfellow penned his poem O Ship of State. Perhaps the Fourth of July is an appropriate time to reread Longfellow's Poem.

Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State! Sail on, O Union, strong and great! Humanity with all its fears, With all the hopes of future years, Is hanging breathless on thy fate. We know what Master laid thy keel, What Workmen wrought thy ribs of steel, Who made each mast, and sail, and rope, What anvils rang, what hammers beat, In what a forge and what a heat Were shaped the anchors of thy hope! Fear not each sudden sound and shock, 'Tis of the wave and not the rock; 'Tis but the flapping of the sail, And not a rent made by the gale! In spite of rock and tempest's roar, In spite of false lights on the shore, Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea! Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee. Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears, Our faith triumphant o'er our fears, Are all with thee, -are all with thee!
