North Haven Democratic Town Committee Promotes "Buy Local" And Environmental Stewardship At Earth Day Celebration

North Haven: The North Haven Democratic Town Committee (DTC) proudly participated in the town-wide Earth Day celebration on Friday, April 26th at the North Haven Recreation Center. Organized by the North Haven Conservation Commission, this annual event brought together community members, local organizations, and environmentally conscious vendors to celebrate sustainability and raise awareness about the importance of protecting our planet.

The DTC's table, centered around the theme Our Power, Our Planet, Our Town, welcomed several hundred visitors throughout the day. Volunteers shared information about the environmental and economic benefits of buying locally sourced and produced goods, services, and food. Conversations focused on how supporting local businesses can reduce environmental impact, strengthen community connections, and keep resources circulating within the local economy.

As part of the celebration, the DTC distributed free seed packets to encourage home gardening and promote sustainable living. These small giveaways served as both a symbol and a practical tool for environmental action-reminding residents that even small steps can lead to meaningful change.

"Protecting our natural resources isn't just an Earth Day activity-it's central to the mission of the North Haven DTC," said Keisha Gattison, Chair of the DTC Events Committee. "We're proud to engage with the community in ways that promote sustainability, and we hope these seed packets inspire more conversations-and more gardens-across town."

The North Haven Democratic Town Committee remains committed to advocating for policies and practices that protect the environment and promote economic justice at the local level. The DTC looks forward to participating in future community events that bring people together for a healthier, more sustainable future.
