PHOTOS

University celebrates Black Angels

By Carly Russell
Photo Editor

On Nov. 20, the university welcomed author of the book "The Black Angels," Maria Smilios and original Black Angels member Virginia Allen. Smilios and Allen sat down with Dr. Katherine Tucker to answer questions and have a conversation about the Black nurses who helped cure tuberculosis. Students, staff and members of the community gathered to hear the remarkable story of these heroic nurses.

Photos: Carly Russell

Interim President Dwayne Smith welcomes guests.

Virginia Allen, an original member of the Black Angels.

Dr. Katherine Tucker asking Smilios and Allen questions submitted by students.

Students and community members waiting for Allen and Smilios to take the stage.

See full story on page 2

Study Abroad Fair educates students on opportunities

Students enjoying snacks and drinks provided at the Study Abroad Fair.

By Carly Russell
Photo Editor

On Nov. 20, the university held a fair in the Adanti Student Center Ballroom to educate and inform students on opportunities to study abroad. Students and faculty representing different departments tabled, showing where they will be traveling to.

Photos: Lily Rand

Students exploring different tables.

Communication disorders majors, Gianna Damone and Renee Royea, sophomores.

Department of the Environment, Geography and Marine Sciences representatives talk about travel to Africa.