PHOTOS

Career Fairs raise opportunities for Owls

By Carly Russell
Photo Editor

Students and recent alumni were given the opportunity to find internships and job opportunities at the Career & Internship Industry Fairs last week. The event spanned over two days, showcasing opportunites for students in Business, STEM and Manufacturing, Communications, Marketing, Media and the Arts, Healthcare, Public Health, Social Work and MFT & Counseling. The event was sponsored by Career Readiness Week and The Office of Career and Professional Development and saw a large turnout of eager owls looking to network and build their careers.

Photos: Carly Russell

See full story on page 2

Interdisciplinary studies major Mohammad Saim Hossain, a freshman and exploratory major Evan Joaquim, a sophomore.

PHOTOS | CARLY RUSSELL

Communication major Camille Grandy, a sophomore, interdisciplinary studies major Idonia Thomas, a senior and general studies major Madison Roman, a junior.

Public health major Haylee Bango and business administration major Albana Pergjoka, juniors, discussing the different opportunities they had heard about.

Otus makes an appearance at the career fair, visiting different tables and welcoming in attending students.

'Travel Around the World' shares Japanese culture

Attending students take part in a Japanese themed trivia game of Kahoot.

By Carly Russell
Photo Editor

On Feb. 26, Commuter Services sponsored the Travel Around the World event to explore Japanese culture. The event was held in Room 217 of the Adanti Student Center. Students enjoyed Japanese snacks, learned about Japanese culture through fun trivia games and got the chance to try making origami.

Photos: Lily Rand

PHOTOS | LILY RAND

Students collecting free stickers.

Healthcare studies major Tamara Brinner, a senior and graudate Liz Merkt, winner of the Kahoot game, holding her boba kit prize.

Business administration majors Yeiri Veliz and Lilia Benavides, juniors.